A Day Full of Wheels

充滿車輪的一天

Last Sunday, my family took Grandpa to the airport. He was flying to Japan to see his old friend. We did not drive our car because the traffic on the highway is always heavy on weekends. Instead, we walked to the bus stop near our house and took a bus to the MRT station.

On the MRT, Grandpa looked out of the window like a child. We crossed a long bridge over the river. He pointed at a boat, a truck, and even a helicopter in the sky. A young passenger smiled and gave him her seat. When we got off at the train station, we went down to the platform and waited for the airport train.

At the airport, we saw many airplanes. Grandpa walked slowly to the gate. He turned around and waved to us. On the way home, we took a taxi because we were tired. Our taxi had a flat tire on the bridge, and we had to wait on the sidewalk for twenty minutes! It was a long day, but it was full of wheels and fun.
