Four Kinds of Weather in One Day

一天之中的四種天氣

People say Taipei has four seasons, but I think it has four kinds of weather in one day. In the morning, the sky is often cloudy and the air is cool. My mother always tells me to bring a jacket. By noon, the sun comes out and the temperature can reach 30 degrees. The weather is hot and humid, and my shirt sticks to my back.

In the afternoon, dark clouds gather over the mountains. Then comes a shower with loud thunder and bright lightning. The rain is heavy but short. After the rain, the air is fresh, and sometimes a rainbow appears over the river. My classmates and I run to the window to take pictures. In the evening, a cool wind blows, and the sky is clear. You can even see a few stars.

Summer is also the typhoon season. When a typhoon comes, the wind is so strong that it can break umbrellas and trees. Schools close, and we stay home. Winter is different. It is not snowy, but the wet and windy weather makes 15 degrees feel freezing. Taipei's weather is strange, but I love it. Every day is a surprise.
