Three Days in Hualien

花蓮三日遊

Day 1: We arrived in Hualien by train at noon. Our hotel was near the coast, so we walked to the beach first. The sea was deep blue, and the waves were loud. In the afternoon, we drove to Taroko. The road runs through a valley between tall mountains. A clear stream flows beside the road, and the water is so cold that it hurts your hands.

Day 2: We went to Liyu Lake. It is the biggest lake in eastern Taiwan, and there is a green hill on one side. We rode bikes around the lake and fed fish at a quiet pond. Later, we visited a farm on the plain. The farmer showed us a hot spring behind the forest. We put our feet in the warm water and watched the sunset.

Day 3: Before we left, we walked along the river bank near the station. The air in Hualien is clean, and the environment is different from Taipei. There are no tall buildings here, only sky, sea, and mountains. I hope to come back next summer and camp in the woods.
