Rain on Picnic Day

野餐日的雨

"It's raining!" Tina shouted on Sunday morning. She called her friend Leo right away. "Our picnic is ruined. Should we cancel it?" Leo was quiet for a moment. "Wait," he said. "Don't decide so fast. Let's discuss it. Maybe we can arrange something else."

Tina complained, "But I prepared sandwiches for ten people!" Leo laughed. "Then we can't waste them. I suggest we have the picnic at my house. My mom will allow it. We can sit on the floor and share the food." Tina was not sure. "Will everyone agree?" she asked. "Let's invite them and see," Leo said. "I promise it will be fun."

Tina sent a message to the group. In five minutes, everyone replied "Yes!" At noon, ten friends appeared at Leo's door with umbrellas. They ate on the living room floor and played cards. Tina's sandwiches disappeared quickly. "Thank you for not giving up," Tina told Leo. "Sometimes a problem is just a chance to try something new." Leo smiled. "See? We solved it together."
