The Thinking Club Wants You

思考社招募新血

ANNOUNCEMENT: The Thinking Club Is Looking for New Members. Do you ever lie awake wondering whether the blue you see is the same blue your friend sees? Do you enjoy questions more than answers? If so, the Thinking Club, the school's only philosophy society, invites you to join us this semester. No previous knowledge of philosophers is required, only curiosity and a willingness to be wrong.

What we do: Every Wednesday at 4:30 in Room 305, we take one big question and spend an hour pulling it apart. Recent topics have included 'Can a computer have intelligence?' and 'Is a prediction still useful if it turns out to be wrong?' Members learn to build a logical outline of an argument, to infer what a speaker really intends, and to tell the difference between an objective fact and a strong opinion. We also observe how the same problem looks from different cultures, from ancient Greece to the Confucian classics.

Why join: Universities and employers increasingly value people who can resolve disagreements with reason rather than volume. Our former members say the club sharpened their wit, improved their essays for the writing section of the college entrance exam, and, most importantly, taught them that being unaware of your own mistakes is the biggest mystery of all. One graduate, now a law student, recalls that the club gave her 'the wisdom to say I don't know.'

How to apply: Pick up an application form outside the library or scan the QR code on this poster. The selection is simple: write one paragraph about a question you cannot stop thinking about. Space is limited to twenty new members, so do not suppose there will be room next month. The first meeting is on September 17. Bring your questions; leave your certainty at the door.

文法與句型 Grammar

S＋V＋whether＋S＋V ...

whether 引導名詞子句，意思是「是否…」，常接在 wonder、ask、know 等動詞之後。文中 wondering whether the blue you see is the same blue your friend sees 即為此用法。

I wonder whether the night market is open on rainy days.

我想知道夜市在下雨天有沒有營業。

S＋V＋sb＋to＋V, to＋V, and to＋V

當同一個動詞後面接多個不定詞時，可用對等連接詞 and 連接，形成平行結構，每個 to V 的形式要一致。文中 learn to build ..., to infer ..., and to tell ... 就是三個平行的不定詞片語。

The course teaches students to read, to write, and to speak with confidence.

這門課教學生有自信地閱讀、寫作和說話。
